Bio & Statement

Martina Morger works across performance, video, and installation to examine how care, desire, and power become visible and negotiable in public space. Her body-based, often minimalist gestures—cleaning, licking, planting, carrying, driving, walking, digging, repeating—reveal invisible labour, overlooked narratives, and ecological entanglements. Many of these actions recur across long-term, serial bodies of work that let themes unfold through repetition, variation, and sustained attention. She uses slowness, softness, and tactile focus as critical strategies that challenge normative expectations around bodies, roles, and productivity.

Her works often emerge from direct engagement with sites where institutional logics, gendered structures, rural realities, and service labour are pronounced. By transforming everyday actions into subtle disruptions, Morger both disenchants and re-enchants familiar systems. Announcement and warning, intimacy and exposure, presence and absence overlap fluidly. Her practice proposes alternative forms of togetherness and creates fragile yet resistant spaces of belonging. Morger understands art as care work and as a means of making power relations physically perceptible—not through spectacle, but through gestures that reveal the political within the everyday.

Martina Morger studied Media and Cultural Studies at the University of Zurich and Media Art at the Zurich University of the Arts and Die Angewandte in Vienna before completing a Masters in Fine Arts Practice at the Glasgow School of Arts. As artistic co-artistic director of Perrformat, she brings performance art to various public sites in and around Zurich. As a member of several collectives and unions, she advocates for the rights and concerns of artists. In 2020, Morger was a studio fellow at the Cité Internationale des Arts in Paris, holds the Manor Art Award 2021, and is an IBK prize winner 2024. Recent exhibitions have included Morgers work at Museum Tinguely, Neues Museum Biel/Bienne, Kunstmuseum Appenzell, Kunstmuseum St.Gallen and Kunstmuseum Liechtenstein, Kunstverein Hannover, CCA Glasgow, Yarat CAS Baku, Cafa Art Beijing, Liste Art Fair Basel, Scottish National Galleries, Galerie Lo-vaas Projects, STAGE Bregenz, Parallel Vienna, and the 58th Biennale Venezia. Born in Vaduz in 1989, Martina Morger lives and works between Liechtenstein, eastern Switzerland, and northern Germany.

Motivation & Work Process

My queer feminist practice is based on multimedia strategies, which require fluid work and thought processes. I see situational approaches as well as questioning rigid structures as essential for creating art. The dismantling of boundaries between media and disciplines is recurrent in my work. As it is mainly site-specific, the political and cultural context is inseparable from it, as well as the consideration of audience, (public) space, and the collective. Working in interdisciplinary collaborations, I try to take an intersectional approach in my individual as well as my collaborative work. Notions of power, desire, fear, and care within a meritocracy determined by work and performance are shaping our lifeworlds and realities. Investigating these things critically, working contextually, and in a care-bearing way are essential in my artistic practice for these very reasons.
